Instruction Manual

Screw-down crown

The Gorilla Fastback is fitted with a screw-down crown for improved water resistance. The crown must be unscrewed to manually wind the mechanism or alter time. After setting time, push the crown into position “B” then press and screw the crown back down into Position “A”. Failure to screw the crown down will compromise water-resistance.

Setting the time

Turn the crown counterclockwise to unscrew, pull out the crown into position “C”, then turn the crown counterclockwise until hour disc and minute hand are correctly set. Push the crown back into position “B”.

Screw the crown back down applying pressure as you turn until the crown comes to a complete stop in Position “A”.

Winding the mechanism

After longer periods of not wearing your automatic watch the mechanism’s mainspring can be hand wound.

Unscrew the crown counterclockwise into position “B”, then turn the crown clockwise to wind the movement. 15-20 turns of the crown will suffice to restore the mechanism’s functionality.

Screw the crown back down applying pressure as you turn until the crown comes to a complete stop in Position “A”.
